Mokena Park Board Plans To Build Shelter House

A rustic style shelter house, approximately 40 by 60 feet and costing about $2,000 is to be erected in Mokena Community park in the spring, it was announced at the last meeting of the Mokena park board.

The structure will have a gravel floor and so designed that it can be enlarged when the need arises. If funds are available a fireplace will be included in the shelter as a convenience to picnickers in the even of sudden weather changes. The shelter will be centrally located in the park, near the water fountain.

A new picnic area is to be set up on the east side of the park. Twenty additional picnic tables will be ready for use next season, it was stated.

Gifts can be made to park districts and it is reported that one of the Mokena organizations has plans for a tennis court under consideration as an addition to recreation facilities at the park.

More playground equipment, including swings, tetter-totters and sandboxes, have been purchased and will be installed before summer.

The district is negotiating now for some additional land to increase its holdings.

The road leading into the park is to be repaired and oiled in the spring, according to plans of the board.

Community park is popular the year round. An ice skating rink is maintained there in the winter when weather permits and in the summer the district sponsors a recreation program. Families, organizations and church groups reserve dates well in advance for reunions and picnics.

Fighting Police Costs A Lot Of Time And Money

The man who assaulted Police Officer James Luther at New Lenox in the early hours of Dec. 29 has a hundred days to spend in jail unless he can come up with $500 and court costs of $15.

He was remanded to the county jail following a hearing before Police Magistrate Ronald Whitaker at New Lenox last Friday. The defendant, Harold George, 26, of Rochelle, indicated he would be unable to pay the fine. Whereupon the magistrate told him he would be required to serve it out, at the rate of $5 a day.

George struck Luther over the head with a coke bottle, coming up on the officer from behind while Luther was writing out a ticket for George's companion, Delbert Thomas, 21, also of Rochelle.

Thomas, George and two other persons, Everett Stuckey, 60, of West Jefferson, O., and Floy White, 18, of Rochelle, were traveling thru New Lenox, heading east, about 4:30 o'clock the morning of Dec. 29. Luther noticed the car was without registration plates and curbed it. He learned then that Thomas, who was driving, did not have a driver's license. He also discovered there was beer and whiskey in the car and the whiskey bottle was open.

Thomas was charged with illegal transportation of intoxicating liquor, driving without an operator's license, and no registration plates. At the hearing Thomas submitted proof that the plates were applied for and that charge was dropped. He was fined $200 and assessed $15 costs on the transporting liquor charge and fined $25 for failure to have a driver's license. The costs on that charge were $10.

He is to pay on the installment plan and put up a bond to that effect.

Stuckey and the White girl, who were somewhat belligerent when aid arrived to help Luther, were each fined $100, and costs of $15 each assessed, on charges of disorderly conduct. Whitaker then recinded half of the fines against the pair and suspended the other half pending good behavior.

Stuckey had been visiting relatives at Rochelle and they had arranged for him to return to Ohio by auto when they found George and Thomas were to make a trip there. Miss White just went along for the ride.

The assault on Luther took place in the police magistrate's court room. Luther finally had to pull his pistol to gain control over the situation.

Area's First 1963 Baby Is From N. Lenox

Patrick Wayne Brenneman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Brenneman of 215 Prairie Ave. New Lenox, was the first baby of the new year born in the area. He weighed 7 pounds 2 ounces at birth. He arrived at 3:19 a.m. on Jan. 1 at Silver Cross hospital, Joliet.

As the winner of the first baby contest he will receive a baby blanket from Braun Sales New Lenox; a diaper pail from Elliott's Pharmacy, New Lenox; a case of baby food from Economy Super Mart, New Lenox; a certificate for dry cleaning from Hutchin's cleaners, New Lenox; a thermometer from A's House of Beauty, Mokena; another certificate for cleaning from Norman's Cleaners, Orland Park; a layette set from Mokena Pharmacy; a $1,000 life insurance policy from Murphy Insurance Agency, Orland Park; an animal bank from New Lenox State Bank; a case of assorted baby foods from Ordman's Park & Shop, Mokena; a gift certificate from the Semmler Press and there will also be a gift of cologne for mother from Lincoln-Way Pharmacy, New Lenox.

Patrick has an older sister, Theresa Lynn who is two years old.

Mr. Brenneman is employed by New Lenox Paint and Decorating.

Bonfire Of Yule Greens

The burning of discarded Christmas trees at Mokena was a big project this year. Jerry Nelson, assisted by a dozen fellow members of the Lions club and 30 cub scouts made two circuits of the village Sunday. On the first time around the crew brought trees that had been left in rear yards out to the curbline. On the second trip the trees were picked up and carried to Community park where they were burned under the supervision of a couple of fire department members.

Nelson estimated approximately 300 trees were burned. Afterwards the cub scouts were taken out for hot chocolate and doughnuts.

It was hoped that the householders whose trees were picked up might donate something to the cub scout treasury but this part of the project was not explained in advance so there was little profit in the venture for the scouts. They plan to remedy this next year.

Frankfort Adopts Voluminous Building Code

The Frankfort village board has adopted the 1955 National Building Code, which carries the approval of the National Fire Underwriters, as the measure to govern construction in that municipality. It is a voluminous instrument.

An ordinance embracing the terms and provisions of the national code were adopted by the trustees at their regular council meeting Monday night. They had been studying the national code for sometime and went thru it in detail at the last session in December.

Under the new ordinance the fees for building permits will remain practically the same as they are now. Building Inspector Clark Bennett will issue all permits or he can authorize the village clerk to issue permits in his absence.

Under the new ordinance homes may be built with shake roofs if they are at least 16 foot apart.

The national codes covering plumbing and electrical work are also to be adopted by the village.

Copies of the building code will be on file at the village all for public inspection.

The Frankfort board adopted another ordinance Monday night, this one dealing with a rezoning case. Jerry and Nathan Aager, as owners of a tract south of Frankfort on Center road, asked to have it reclassified from farmland to heavy industry. The zoning board gave an OK but restricted the use of the property to "pre-fabrication" in its recommendation.

Walter Drtna, of Western Springs, and James Gamble, of LaGrange, plan to open a steel fabricating plant there and had said so from the beginning. They also stated they had no intention of doing any business that would cause objectionable odors or pollute the air.

The 1-2 classification at Frankfort covers all types of heavy industry but excludes such things as glue factories, fertilizing plants and other processes which might pollute the air or be a public nuisance.

The ordinance adopted by the board Monday night will follow the provisions set up in the code for 1-2, it was explained. Drtna and Gamble said they would begin work on their plant as soon as possible. It will employ only a few persons to begin with, they said, but hope for a rapid growth.

State Sees Completion Of FAI-80 Thru Area By 1965

1963 will see work progressing on transcontinental highway FAI-80 in Will county east of Joliet and the road should be completed by 1965, according to plans at the Illinois highway department's district engineer's office at Elgin.

The state highway department also says that work on the link between Hazel Crest and the Will county line south and west of Tinley Park is expected to be far advanced this year. The Cook county section includes five structures (bridges and grade separations) and 5.7 miles of paving west of Kedzie ave, between the Tri-State tollway and the Will county line south and west of Tinley.

In Will county the plans for 1963 call for work on 15 grade separations and the grading of the route for the coast-to-coast highway.

The grade separations east of Joliet include three full interchanges, one U.S. 30 near Providence high school, one at U.S. 45 and 183rd street, and one at the junction with 42-A at what is now Prosperi airport at Tinley Park.

Richard Galterman, district engineer, said it was the state's hope that the grade separations and the grading would be completed this year so paving could be started in 1964 and completed by 1965.

"If it's not done by then," he said, "You will be talking to someone else in this office."

In Cook county grade separations are to be built at Ridgeland ave., Cicero ave., Crawford ave., and Kedzie ave, and the tollway.

Word of the plans for FAI-80 in this area was pleasing to members of the Mokena planning commission, the Mokena Lions club and the Chamber of Commerce who have been laboring long to get work started on the highway. But they will continue to keep pressure on the highway department.

Population experts forecast a tremendous growth for the area and it was the fear of people here that it might come before definite plans for building FAI-80 were available.

FAI-80 can carry the bulk of the thru traffic that now takes U.S. 30. Traffic on Route 30 is approaching the saturation point. At Chicago Heights, it was reported parking is banned on Route 30 inside the municipality because the traffic had become so heavy.

With the likelihood that FAI-80 will be completed thru the area by 1965 it was believed that industry can be attracted to the region.

The population move is forecast for the area between Hazel Crest and Joliet because it is the nearest "open space" to Chicago and on a direct line east and west from the east coast via the toll roads (as used by FAI-80) and passing just south of Lake Michigan and industrial complex with the country's largest steel mills.

Persons moving to the area would be able to utilize FAI-80, it was pointed out, to reach this section from Chicago and leave it at Tinley, U.S. 45 or west of New Lenox and complete their journeys on secondary roads.

Christmas Candy May Get To Frankfort By July 4th

For many, many years at Frankfort it has been customary that when the school children have their annual Christmas party, for some member or members of the village board to be on hand to distribute candy-filled stockings to the youngsters.

This year officialdom was represented at the program--not to hand out goodies but to apologize and regrets that there would be no treat because the candy had not arrived.

At the village board meeting Monday night it was reported that the candy has still not arrived but there was a possibility that it might still get there. Monday the Frankfort post office received a package that had been mailed in Chicago on Dec. 10, the trustees were informed, so it is possible the candy is still on the road.

Correspondence on the subject shows (1) that it was shipped from Chicago Dec. 7, via parcel post; (2) that it wasn't sent by parcel post but by one of those parcel delivery outfits and that it left the candy company's shipping room on Dec. 10. The letters do not say what kind of conveyance the parcel service uses and it is possible, Frankfort officials believe, that the form may favor the two-wheel cart hauled by a water buffalo and the route to Frankfort is via Singapore.

Village Clerk Walter Pfaff is to call the candy company this week and place a substitute order for the one that failed to materialize. The new order will be for a different kind of candy, something suitable for Valentine day or Easter, whichever day the company believes it can make delivery.

The Fourth of July, which might be about right for time, was not considered because the youngsters will be on vacation then.

The trustees are sorry, kids, but the delay is something beyond their control.

ELECT DIRECTORS

Attorney George E. Sangmeister was elected to the board of directors of the Frankfort State bank at a stockholder's meeting Tuesday following a proxy battle. Directors re-elected were A.H. Krusemark, Herman Barleyworth, Arthur Bauch, Leroy Bettenhausen, LeRoy Mager, Alvin Brugeman, H. A. Heusner, and Howard Remien. George Tate failed at re-election.

Add Two On Zoning Board At New Lenox

Lloyd Berlin, former mayor of New Lenox, and Louis Loebe, active in civic affair, has been appointed to the New Lenox planning commission and zoning board by Mayor Stanley Gilmore.

In making the appointment Mayor Gilmore said that he believed the experience of the two men in civic and business affairs would serve the village well. New Lenox is facing a great growth and will have numerous annexation and subdivision problems in the immediate future it was pointed out.

New Lenox is to be host to the Stream Protection Association at a dinner Jan. 31 to be served in Bruns restaurant at 7 p.m. The Stream Protection Association is made up of people who deal with sewage and sanitary districts and systems.

Mokena Library Opens New Shelf --For Paperbacks

Paperback Pick-Up, a new library service designed especially for men has been inaugurated by the Mokena Village library. It is a special table of paperback books that may be borrowed on the honor system without checking out.

Featured will be science fiction, westerns and mysteries, and it is hoped that the users of this table will donate used paperbacks from their own libraries.

Altho it was started to answer the requests of men, the "Paperback Pick-Up" will be available to women users of the library also. The Mokena Book Club members, operators of the library expect this to fill a real need in the community.

The library, located one door east of the post office, is open Wednesdays from 3:30 to 5:00 and from 7:30 to 9:00. All area residents are welcome to borrow books.

The January meeting of the Mokena Book club will be held at the home of Mrs. Robert Olsen this Friday. The program for the evening will be presented by Mrs. Walter Shewski who will review "Charles", a book about Charles Dickens, written by Victoria Lincoln.

Can File For Town Offices

Monday, Jan. 7 was the first day for filing nominating petitions for highway commissioner in Frankfort township. It was announced by Town Clerk Harold Cooper. Last day for filing is Feb. 11, and the election will be April 2.

Some towns used a caucus for the nomination of town candidates but in Frankfort township petitions are used. Highway commissioner is the only town office to be filled this spring in Frankfort township.

So far Walter Yunker, incumbent who will be seeking another term, is the only one to take out nominating petitions. None have been filed as of Tuesday but it was expected that Yunker would file this week.

Petitions may be obtained from Town Clerk Cooper, either at his office on 3rd st., Mokena after 6 p.m. or at the Cooper-Hostert garage, on Front street.

Premier displays will be held in the area in the near future, it was announced, culminating with a print exhibit in the spring.

Dies Suddenly

Funeral services for Herbert Gullicksen, 67, formerly of Frankfort, were held last Thursday afternoon from the Sonntag, Burgess and Wylie chapel, at Herkimer and Benton streets, Joliet, with the Rev. Donald L. Krueger, past of St. John's English Lutheran church, officiating. Burial was in Woodlawn Memorial Park cemetery.

Mr. Gullicksen, who resided at 116 O'Neill st., Joliet, was stricken with a heart attack at his home the afternoon of Dec. 31. An inhalator crew from the Joliet fire department endeavored to revive him but without success.

He was born in Frankfort Nov. 3, 1895, the son of Gustav and Helen Geuther Gullicksen. He served in the army in World War I and in 1922 he moved to Joliet. A foreman in the rod mill of the American Steel and Wire Co., Mr. Gullicksen retired in 1960. He was a member of St. John's English Lutheran church at Harwood post, No. 5, American Legion.

Besides his wife, the former Myrtle Arvidson, Mr. Gullicksen is survived by a daughter, Bonnie, Mrs. George Thompson of Joliet; and one sister, Augusta, Mrs. George Kachur, of Niles, Mich. Four brothers preceded him in death, Carl, Lawrence, William and Alvin.

Requiem Mass

For J.P. Healy,

81; Died Jan. 1

Funeral services for Joseph P. Healy, 81, of Lincoln Estates, who died Jan. 1, were conducted last Friday, Jan. 4, from the Baskerville chapel, Roberts st. and Lincoln highway, New Lenox, to St. Mary's church, Mokena, where a solemn requiem high mass was sung.

Mr. Healy died at Silver Cross hospital following a long illness.

He was born at Lake Forest and lived in Chicago until 1933 when he moved to Frankfort township. He was employed at the Boston Store, Chicago, until his retirement several years ago.

His only survivor is his wife, the former Elaine Bissett.

Rexall To Give Away Big Prizes

Fabulous prizes are being offered in the latest Rexall Super Plenums Sweepstakes in which entries can be made at Elliott's drug store at 200 East Lincoln highway, New Lenox. It is a national contest and for the winners it will be "money in the bank," with up to $50,000 in prizes, 1010 prizes in all.

First prize, it was explained by Noel Elliott, owner of the Rexall store bearing his name, is a $10,000 bank account, plus a $15,000 bonus if the winner has included a box top or a substitute as provided in the official rules.

Second to 10th prizes run from $5,000 to $1,000 in bank accounts. The 1000 runners up will each receive a $10 merchandise certificate they can spend in their Rexall drug store.

To enter one merely asks about the special combination Super Plenums package and pick up a free entry blank with official rules. The contest is to end March 31, 1963.

Miss Elsa Bengtson Weds William Leahy, New Yorker

KATHARINE HEISNER
Frankfort 5187

Mrs. Ruth Bengtson announced the recent marriage of her daughter, Elsa S. of Frankfort, to William Leahy of New York City. The single ring ceremony took place in the Orland Park Methodist church on Dec. 22, with the Rev. Leon Leatherman officiating. Only the immediate families attended.

The bride wore a champagne color brocade satin, street-length dress with a short veil attached to her simple pillbox. She wore an orchid corsage.

The attendants were the bride's brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. Ernst Bengtson of Orland Park.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held for those in attendance in the Ernst Bengtson home. After spending two weeks in the area with relatives, they returned to New York, where they will reside at 2 Tudor Place.

The bride is employed as a secretary at the Continental Can Co. and the groom is also employed there as a traffic manager.

New Years Day Guest List

Mr. and Mrs. Don Stephen and family, Mrs. Elsie Genens and Delmar Genens were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Niemann of Mokena. Other guests were Miss Barbara Niemann of Downers Grove, Mr. and Mrs. Lorn Niemann and son of Beecher, Miss Judy Dunn of New Lenox and Mr. and Mrs. Ervin Hentsch of Mokena.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Lane of Culver, Ind. were overnight guests of her mother, Mrs. Katharine Heisner. On New Year's day a family dinner was served in the latter's home.

Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Schroeder and daughters were supper guests of the William Muehlers of Mokena.

Mr. and Mrs. George Sangmister, Jr. and Mrs. Anna Hinspeter, all of Mokena, dined with Mr. and Mrs. George Sangmister, Sr.

Mr. and Mrs. Lester Heisner had as their dinner guests Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Ficker and son of Tinley Park, Miss Nancy Heisner, Levern Mark, and Rae Welden of Manhattan.

Overnight guests in the Howard Remien home were four fraternity brothers of the former's son Bill, all students at Beloit college.

The next dinner and meeting of the Lion's club will be held at the Arch Inn on Tuesday, Jan. 15 at 6:30 p.m. Dr. George Morgan will conduct the business meeting. The topic of the program is "United Nations and the World Crises," with the guest speaker, Thomas Gause of Oak Park. He is a member of the Midwest Office of the American Association of United Nations.

The regular monthly meeting of the Woman's Club will be held at the home of Mrs. Albert Krusemark on Thursday, Jan. 17 at 8 p.m. Mrs. Howard Remien, the president, will preside at the business meeting. The evenings program will be made up on a talk given by Mrs. Glenn Pyles of Midlothian, a recent visitor of the Holy Land. Her topic is "A Visit to the Holy Land." She will also show slides taken while she was there.

Hostess will be the chairman, Mrs. Paul Lambrecht assisted by Mesdames Ted Massey, John Fedak, George Gradwell, Scherril Rahm, Robert Fredin, Leroy Olson and Herbert Folkers.

The next meeting of the Roy-

Clelland of Joliet also attended.

Mr. and Mrs. William Deist had a family dinner in their home last Sunday afternoon and evening. Among the guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Walter Schram, Dale and Diane, Allen Creer of Mokena, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Warning and Sharon, and Mr. and Mrs. Marion Pomykala and Debbie and Gail. The party was held in honor of Mr. Deist's birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Larson recently attended the twenty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mrs. and Mrs. Edward Stua of Chicago Heights. On New Year's day they entertained Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Olson at dinner in their home.

Manager Type Governments Usury Rights Of Public

Advocates of big government using their usual pitch "for business and efficiency" are now pushing for county manager form of government in Illinois as another step in that direction. Some states already have it.

The big government forces are constantly at work to remove government further from the people and concentrate it in the hands of a few non-elected officials.

The manager form is right down their alley. City manager form of government is authorized in Illinois under a law that would allow anyone to be entrusted with the government of a municipality. As far as the law is concerned a city manager can be man, woman or child, sane or insane and a resident of Moscow or Pieping. There are no qualifications. He or she does not have to be a citizen, nor of any particular age, nor speak, write or read English nor any other language.

But such comments are beside the point. The main point to consider is that manager form of government is not representative form of government. A city manager, a county manager and possibly a state manager or a manager of the United States owes nothing to public. He had no responsibility to the public and if he says "the public be damned" there is nothing the public can do about it. A manager is responsible only to the group or business that controls a majority of the vote of the body that appoints him.

We believe the people are better off--certainly their rights have protection -- under elected officials rather than under appointed ones. When you vote someone into office you can vote him out, but when someone is appointed to the place and you have nothing to do with the appointment you are really stuck.

The reason we used the terms of state manager and a manager of the United States is to warn that it is ultimate aim of the manager planners, according to a statement made by one of their lobbyists at a meeting in Springfield several years ago, to have all administrative officials appointed and only a limited number of legislative officials elected.

When one stops to consider that the President of the United States the governors, the judges, and the state and county officials now elected to head the different departments are all administrators, one really gets an idea of the ambitions of these manager planners.

Backers of the manager form of government use a magic phrase when they label this type of government as "Businesslike and efficient." Too many of us have been taken in by all this talk of efficiency and business. Efficiency can be carried too far, become a Vice. After all we are human beings, yet, and it is to be hoped that we shall remain such and not become robots and ciphers.

The city manager form of government advocates claim it is a money saver and a guard against corruption and graft. A look at some of the places that have city manager government will show that it is quite costly, much more costly than the representative form in some places and as for being a guard against corruption and graft we would like to point out one example that most people have at least heard about. Kansas City!

For many years Kansas City, Mo. was one of the most corrupt, graft ridden municipalities in the nation and all the time this was going on the city was being operated under a city manager. No one accused him of being a boodler but then the boys running the show had to have a few honest people about for window dressing.

We hope that the legislators will bat down this attempt to foist county manager form of government on the state. Under this proposal a county manager would have complete charge of all the business of a county and presumably could hire and fire all the key figures.

One person who asked to remain anonymous said that if the county manager form is adopted it will ultimately mean that the election of all county officers could be eliminated. The manager would have full power and could operate the various departments either by himself or by assistants whom he would appoint.

These managers are great on having assistants and we might add that they don't work cheap.

We don't believe that a manager type government is as good as the one we have. We don't believe that any business organization, or service organization, or professional people's organization is better qualified to choose our form of government or our candidates than the public as a whole. But the public has a duty. We must remember that we have a responsibility; that we must take an active part in public affairs. We just can't adopt a "Let George do it" attitude. If the people we elect to office fail to do the job they should, let's get rid of them.

But let's keep the system. Let's keep the voters in control of all our governments. If we don't we are going to wind up under a dictatorship.

On Second Thot

By GLENN F. LOGAN

The old saying to the effect that what one person considers edible is poisonous to another is aptly illustrated in TV.

One might add that is the basis of TV's success. Take A for instance--let's call him Algonquin for short--he may think Monday and Wednesday night programs are just great while there's Harry now, who thinks the Monday and Wednesday offerings are waste of time to watch. He likes the Tuesday and Thursday stuff. Mr. Zilch holds out for Friday and Saturday nights.

No one appears much interested in the programs scheduled for Sunday nights but a lot of people keep their sets tuned on to some channel then just the same. It's habit forming.

This is a good thing. If every one went for the same show at the same time they could run 'em off in one evening and that would create quite a problem. What would the people do the other nights? Learn to read? Learn to talk?

This way something is cooking all the time and while one may not care particularly for any of the programs on off nights he may find some commercials that he likes. Some people say they like some of the commercials better than some of the programs anyway.

Your correspondent could buy that. He finds most of the commercials entertaining and if some are incongruous, so what! That that one on cigarettes, for instance. You know the one--here's a fellow who looks to be in his 30's and more natural with a glass in his hand than a football--is shown playing with a bunch of kids. Now this man is either a smart cookie himself or he has a good agent or manager because the kids in the scene are all little ones, ranging from about 5 to eight years old, with maybe only one or two that might be around the 10 or 12 mark. He is taking no chances with kids running--say 11 to 14 who would kill him.

He makes one run thru this pack, going maybe 10 or 15 yards. Then without any rest whatever he starts on a return trip. This time, however, he don't make it. An 8-year-old tackles one leg and down he goes like he was hit by one of those pro linemen weighing around 275.

Well, naturally he is pretty much all in after having gone maybe 20 yards at a slow jog trot so he lays there until some gal--one is led to assume that it is wife and the mother of one or two of the young savages who have laid him low--comes running to his aid.

Your correspondent is no ad-vertising man but it seems to me that here is a spot made to order for the wares of a distiller, or at the very least tea, coffee or hot chocolate. Here is a man, mind you, that is short of breath and all in and what does this babe do?

She puts a cigarette between his lips, strikes a match for him and when he gets the gasper going briskly she helps him over to chair drawn up to a garden table. As an afterthought she tosses a scarf of some light material over the back of his neck so he won't cool out too quickly and looks at him admiringly as he puffs out big clouds of smoke. And you can see that the more he smokes the stronger he gets and by the time they cut the film he has revived sufficiently to sit up straight.

No doubt this is a new method and one can readily see that it will make work much lighter for the handlers of fighters and the trainers of athletic teams. Instead of carrying a lot of bottles and a satchel filled with liniments, unguents and restorers all they would have to carry out to revive the gladiators would be a pack of cigarettes.

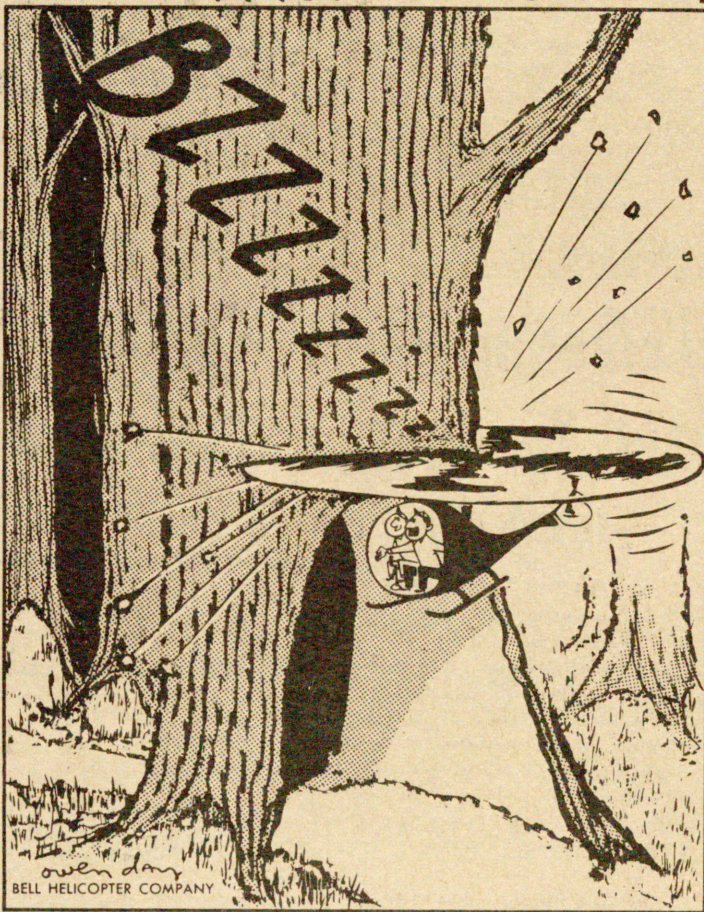

The glass stomach is still to be seen occasionally but one of the makers of a tablet that is supposed to relieve headaches as well as upset stomachs, now pokes fun at their rivals demonstration, asserting they are out to mend humans, not glass.

Babies, real or cartoons, are being used extensively on TV commercials today. In one series if you hear someone call--"Gentle,"--you aren't certain what is coming onto the scene, the baby, a dog or roll of tissue. Each is called Gentle.

The soap and detergent crowd is still making a strong pitch but putting more emphasis on how kind the stuff is to the hands rather than how white it gets the duds. If clothes get any whiter than the claims of the soap makers the housewives who hang them out will have to wear special sun glasses to prevent the same condition as snow-blindness.

COPTER CARTOON

by owen day

"This ought to get us through a long, cold winter!"

The beer group, with one exception, is rather dull, being given over largely to illustrated talks on the purity of the ingredients and their nutritional value. Somehow one gets the impression that it is primarily a health beverage; and any buzz one may get in lapping up same is purely coincidental.

The one exception referred to above is the beer bear from the land of skylube water--the big show-off! The adventures of the bear and the other creatures of forest and streams are delightful and well received wherever shown.

We can be glad for the cartoon, skits and singing commercials. It weren't for them TV would run pretty much to old movies broken into short segments by long pitches of used car salesman.

Hints For Homeowners

BY: JAMES FIZZELL

ASSOCIATE FARM ADVISER

Nearly every homemaker has tried to grow house plants; sometimes with little success. Often this lack of success is due to poor selection of plants. Some plants do better in the home than others. Also house plants may range in size from a single small African violet to a tree the height of a man; from a cactus that thrives in a hot dry room, to a tropical rain forest plant that needs a glass case to maintain a humidity of 90 degrees; from plants that "grow under all conditions," to plants best left to expert greenhouse florists.

Somewhere in this range is a house plant for everyone, and 15 experts tell how to grow them in a new "Handbook on House Plants," just published by the Brooklyn Botanic Garden. The book is well illustrated. The articles are simple enough for the beginner, yet complete enough to satisfy the skilled grower.

Perhaps of greatest appeal is a section called "100 House Plant Portraits." Here, arranged primarily on the basis of their light requirements, are pictures of plants and "thumb nail" descriptions of their characteristics and needs. For the beginner this will be a dictionary for identification of the plants he does not know. Beside articles on common house plants and their culture the handbook also contains articles on unusual house plants, gloxinias, cacti, selecting Christmas plants, growing house plants in a city apartment and potted trees for modern interiors.

The Brooklyn Botanic Garden Handbooks are published as a public service. Copies are available at one dollar from the Brooklyn Botanic Garden, Brooklyn 25, New York.

Birds are some of our most interesting and thankful neighbors. During the winter months birds will find food scarce, particularly when the ground is covered by snow. A small bird feeder will be greatly appreciated by these feathered guests and they may decide to stay all year 'round.

The kind of feed you provide will determine the kinds of birds that visit your feeder. Sparrows and juncos will feed on most kinds of seeds.

Insect eating birds like chickadees and woodpeckers are attracted by beef suet. If you have some evergreen trees in your yard, sunflower seeds will attract cardinals.

Be sure to locate your feeder so that the birds are protected from predators such as cats, and don't forget to put it where it can be seen from your window.

Finally, don't forget to keep your feeder filled once you start.

Business & Finance

BY MAURICE P. ANGLAND

The stock market rose in a very determined way since our last column effort. The action of the stock market as to buyers or sellers of less than 100 share lots, is usually covered in what the market calls "odd lot action."

Usually the sales by odd lot holders, will range close to 1,2 shares sold for every share bought. Any strong upward variation in this relationship is considered very bullish by those adhering to what they call the "theory of contrary opinion" which assumes the average small holder, is wrong in his market actions. During the past two weeks, the odd lot selling index has been high and has been as high as about 1.7 which means that for every share purchased there has been selling of 1.7 shares. This is an unusually high ratio and considered very bullish by many market analysts.

In addition to the odd lot indicator the Dow Jones industrial averages reached new high ground and the railroad shares index rose very substantially. Under the Dow Jones theory of market action, a rise must be confirmed by an increase in the railroad index to particular levels, to be accepted as the market direction. This requirement was easily achieved.

A number of market commentators are predicting that business for the first half of 1963 will be good, but not excitingly so, but that the second half of the year will be very good and, from present indications the period of very good business will carry well into 1964.

Market comment by L. O. Hooper in Jan. 1, 1963 issue of Forbes, expresses the opinion that the stock market may well be better than business in the first half of 1963. Business is likely to be good, but in his opinion the stock market will be better.

Mr. Hooper has a very good reputation as a student of business and securities markets. He expresses that in the near-by months the investor interest is likely to be centered in "big name" quality stocks. He also thinks there is presently a veering to the cyclical industries which give better than average yield at present market levels. This group would, naturally, include steels and some machinery people.

Contrary to opinion of some of the business leaders, a number of leading market analysts are convinced that there will be a tax reduction in the first half of 1963. Mr. Hooper states that the Kennedy team have made tax reduction a "must" and he believes they have ample political muscle to put in thru Congress.

The general business picture is good and the need for new plant and equipment is great. Funds for this purpose will probably be available in substantial amounts and at interest rates lower than would have been likely two or three years ago.

A leading investment service using a computer to analyze industry positions and also that of firms within those industries, has published its weekly forecast. The top 10 industries chosen are: airlines, automobiles, tin cans, life insurance, utilities, chemicals, beryllium, oil, textiles, and aerospace.

MORE MISSILE GAP?

Dear Sir:

The Kennedy Administration is concerned about the cost of proceeding with the Skybolt missile program. It is too bad that they cannot project a small degree of conservatism into other items in the budget. JFK says that the missile might become obsolete before it is completely developed. As for that point of reasoning, so is everything before it is finished. This is true and shall ever be so in a free enterprise system.

How many Skybolt prototypes have been launched? We are now told of six. However, due to White House censorship it is difficult to believe that the engineering skill of its maker should have a 17% efficiency record.

It is more plausible to think that the Skybolt might have been too successful. The true reason for cancellation might be charged to "The Rostow Guide" and our "Arms Control and Disarmament Agency." Rostow was responsible for the cessation of production on all manned bombers in early 1961. Nikita wants the bombers eliminated and our Keynesian-Socialist whiz-kids intend to oblige him. The Skybolt would have prolonged the life of such air-craft by at least ten years according to the British.

The British cannot use the substituted Polaris missile unless they build submarines equipped to fire them. At present they have none. Much time and money will be required to build these inferior weapons. Does not this "BIG DEAL" create another "Missile Gap" of which our youthful President is so fearful? At and during the campaign and election time of '60, this myth was used extensively. In '64 it probably will be true if the professors remain in control of Washington.

Patriotically yours,
Henry W. Hicks

Farmers Outlook Letter

BY L. H. SIMERL

(Extension Economist, U. of I.)

Here is important news for hog producers: Market supplies in prospect for the first half of this year are 6 percent larger than those of a year ago, and supplies for the last half may be up 4 percent. Prices seem likely to be a little lower than in 1962, especially in the first half of the year.

Market supplies of hogs now in prospect for the next six months are a little larger than was expected earlier. Where farmers now report 6 percent more hogs than they had a year ago, last September they reported intentions to increase only 4 percent, and in June they indicated plans to increase only 2 percent.

The increase of 6 percent for the fall pig crop is not excessive. It is principally a further step in leveling up the fall and spring pig crops. The 1962 fall pig crop was still 10 percent smaller than the preceding spring pig crop.

It is difficult to find good reasons for forecasting any general advance in hog prices in the first half of this year. In the first place, prices in December were close to the average received during the first half of 1962. And it seems doubtful that they will average as high in the first half of this year as they did a year ago.

Some farmers have delayed marketing hogs to postpone income tax payments. This delay may cause some bunching of receipts and a price decline in January. If the decline is severe, there should be a recovery in February.

Compared with last year, there is only one bullish factor in the hog price outlook: Consumer buying power is up 5 to 6 percent from the level of early 1962. Population is up 1-2/3 percent, but this is only the normal increase.

The bearish factors are only slightly price-depressing. In addition to the increase in the prospective market supply of hogs for the first half of this year, supplies of beef may be up 3 to 5 percent from last year, and retail prices may be substantially lower than in recent months. The supply of broilers will be about 15 percent larger in January than the year before, and supplies seem changing developments in its fields, the Museum of Science and Industry, in 1962, installed new exhibits costing $2,207,000, according to Major Lenox R. Lohr, its president.

At the same time, it entertained 2,762,249 visitors. A large part of this attendance figure, which was 102,971 ahead of the total reached in 1961, was attributed by Major Lohr to the fact that the new exhibits had enabled the Museum during the year to update or completely change more than 14 per cent of its total interior display space, and to expand its outdoor exhibit area by almost 50 per cent.

Also contributing to visitor interest were the unusually large number of special events staged during the year. Each attracted its own sizable followings.

The great area from which the Museum draws its guests was reflected in the 7,628 school, college and other organized groups entertained during the year, and its heavy registrations of tourists, vacationists and visitors from abroad. The student bodies, who in an increasing number of cases came to Chicago by chartered buses, hailed from 40 states, ranging from Maine to Oregon.

Directly reflecting this constantly mounting influx of visitors from all over the world, the museum found it necessary during the year to expand its already extensive dining facilities with an entirely new luncheonette dining room. Also, its parking areas were enlarged, bringing total free parking capacity, adjacent to the Museum building, to 1,273 vehicles.

Major Lohr said that the most gratifying indication of the world's opinion of the Museum was significantly demonstrated by the increasing way it is being used by foreign nations that are planning similar museums of their own. Four times during 1962 it was visited by special Japanese delegations, charged with establishing a science museum in Tokyo; while one of Israel's cultural representatives spent a whole month studying its exhibits and methods of operation. Several delegations from other cities in this country also visited the Museum, all seeking information that could aid them in establishing science and industry exposition centers.

Warns Sore Throats Can Bring On Heart Trouble

One way to prevent heart disease is to take care of sore throats. If that sounds puzzling to you, odds are that you've never run into rheumatic fever--which is responsible for half of all heart disease in children of school age.

Not all sore throats can cause rheumatic fever, of course. The kind that may be the "strep sore throat," the result of infection by certain types of streptococcal bacteria. Other strep infections may also be followed by rheumatic fever. These are less common, but they include scarlet fever and some kidney infections.

Rheumatic fever can cause permanent damage to the lining and valves of the heart. When this happens, the condition is called rheumatic heart disease, according to your Illinois Heart Association.

Scientists spent years studying patients whose strep sore throats were promptly and adequately treated and others whose sore throats went untreated. They discovered that when the strep infection is effectively eradicated -- usually by large doses of penicillin -- rheumatic fever doesn't occur. And without rheumatic fever we'd have no rheumatic heart disease.

Unfortunately, it isn't as simple as all that. Some strep infections go unrecognized. These are "Silent" infections, causing no symptoms that would alert the patient to seek medical care but which can trigger a rheumatic fever attack just the same. However, if every KNOWN strep infection were promptly and properly treated, according to your Illinois Heart Association, the incidence of rheumatic fever and rheumatic heart disease could be brought lower each year.

A free booklet entitled "Now

You Can Protect Your Child Against Rheumatic Fever" is available from the Region II, Illinois Heart Association, 15 West Jackson Street, Joliet, parents with children from 5 to 15 will be especially interested, since this is the age-range when rheumatic fever most often strikes.

The streptococcus doesn't itself cause rheumatic fever -- but somehow it sets the scene for the appearance of rheumatic fever in some people. Not all streptococcal infections will lead to rheumatic fever; actually only a very small percentage do. But even this small percentage adds up to large numbers. It has been estimated that 500,000 children and 500,000 adults in the U.S. have had rheumatic fever or suffer from rheumatic heart disease. The heart damage caused by rheumatic fever may appear following a first attack or not for many years, and often not at all. The likelihood of heart damage can be greatly reduced by protecting persons who have had an attack or rheumatic fever against recurrences.

Parents especially, should know that an attack of rheumatic fever does not confer immunity, as is the case with many other childhood diseases. Rather, it indicates that a child is susceptible and requires continuous protection against new strep infections that can set off recurrences of rheumatic fever. This means continuous, regular treatment with antibiotics or other drugs under medical supervision.

Research has provided the knowledge through which many rheumatic fever recurrences can be prevented. But for its successful application the parents' cooperation is of vital importance.

NI-Gas Acquires Allied Thru Exchange Of Stock

Northern Illinois Gas Company formally acquired control of Allied Gas Company Monday, Dec. 31. Allied will be operated as a subsidiary of NI-Gas.

NI-Gas' offer, made November 1, for one share of 5 percent convertible preferred stock ($100 par) for each four shares of Allied common, has been accepted by holders of 99 per cent of Allied stock.

At the final transaction held Monday at the Northern Trust Company (Chicago), NI-Gas exchanged its preferred stock for the Allied Gas stock. Allied shareholders will receive their Northern Illinois Gas preferred by mail. Each share of preferred stock can be converted into two shares of NI-

Gas common stock, according to C.F. Hennessy, vice president who represented NI-Gas at the meeting. John J. Suslavich, vice president of Allied Gas, represented Allied.

The exchange offer approved by the Illinois Commerce Commission was ruled a tax-free exchange by the Internal Revenue Service.

Allied Gas serves about 9,500 customers in 10 Illinois communities (Paxton, Rantoul, Gibson City, Elliott, Loda, Ludlow, Thomasboro and Saybrook) in eastern Illinois; and in Rochelle and Hillcrest, about 17 miles west of DeKalb.

NI-Gas presently served about 775,000 customers in 332 communities in 22 north and north-central Illinois counties.

Seen But Unknown Fate Of Douglas Tomb, Memorial

More people probably see the Stephen A. Douglas tomb and monument state memorial each day than all the other 30 state memorials combined together. Few realize, however, that this slender spire in Chicago's fascinating skyline antedates most of the towering skyscrapers and is a memorial to Illinois' "Little Giant," one of our state's most prominent early figures.

Located in a two-acre tract at the east end of 35th St. on Chicago's near south side, the memorial is just west of Lake Michigan, the Leif Erikson Drive and the Illinois Central railroad tracks.

The memorial, completed in 1881, is of a style common to his period. Another Chicago landmark of this type is the Grant monument in Lincoln Park. Designed by Leonard W. Volk, the well-known sculptor and a relative of Mrs. Douglas, the original plans were destroyed in the Great Chicago Fire of 1871.

Douglas, Illinois' first nationally known figure, died in Chicago June 3, 1861. The following October his friends organized an association to erect and maintain a monument in his memory. The Douglas Cottage was donated to the association by Douglas' mother and sister.

Funds were slow in materializing and Volk could only obtain $2,500 from the sale of photographs of his plans. In 1865 the state appropriated $25,000 to purchase the property and begin building the memorial. Douglas' body was placed in the sarcophagus June 3, 1868, and is the only one buried there. Of the total cost of $90,000 $84,000 were state funds.

The memorial consists of a granite base surmounted by the column supporting a bronze figure of Douglas. This figure measures nine feet, nine inches high. Four bronze allegorical figures representing Illinois, History, Justice and Eloquence are at the corners of the sarcophagus-like base.

The sarcophagus containing Douglas' body is of Vermont marble from his home county. On the sarcophagus is a bust of Douglas by Volk. Inscribed on the base is this quotation from Douglas, "Tell my children to obey the laws and uphold the Constitution."

In 1833, when Douglas was 20 years old, he came to Winchester, Ill., from Vermont to teach school and study law. Admitted to the bar in 1834, he commenced his practice in Jacksonville and was elected State's Attorney for Morgan County in 1835. He was a member of the Illinois House of Representatives in 1836-37 and in 1837 became Registrar of the Land Office in Springfield. In 1838 he was an unsuccessful candidate for Congress.

During 1840-41 Douglas was Secretary of State. In 1841 he was elected a Judge of the Illinois Supreme Court, where he served until after his election, in 1846, to the United States Senate, where he served until his death.

Douglas was an unsuccessful candidate for president on the Democratic ticket in 1852, 1856 and 1860. Running against Abraham Lincoln in 1860 he received 12 electoral votes. In addition to his political offices he was founder and president of Chicago university, (not to be confused with the present University of Chicago) which position he held until his death. The school's campus adjoined the memorial property to the west.

Predict Upswing In Home Building

"Chicago area home building will pick up slightly in 1963 while the apartment boom is likely to taper off," said Harold P. Hallean, president of Bell Savings and Loan Association.

Based on figures compiled for the first eleven months of 1962, the estimated housing volume for the year in the six county area is 22,300 homes, 18,900 private apartment units and 1,000 public housing units for a total of 42,200 units. The comparative figures in 1961 were 24,415 homes, 16,363 private apartment units and 4,186 public housing units for a total of 44,964.

The 1962 single family home volume is 9% below 1961 and the lowest since 1949, noted Hallean. New homes were approximately one-half of the 44,529 reported in the peak year of 1955.

"Home building has declined steadily for the past four years and probably has now reached a trough. We can expect a slight upswing next year unless we encounter adverse economic conditions," predicted Hallean.

Hallean pointed out that private apartments have set new records in each of the past six years. The 1962 volume exceeds the previous high by 10%. However, there has been a noticeable drop in recent months which may indicate that we have reached a leveling off in this upswing.

"In the first six months of 1962, apartment permits were approximately equal to new homes. During the last six months home construction has exceeded apartments by almost 40%," he noted.

Hallean estimated that total new housing in the Chicago area will be approximately 42,000 units again in 1963. This volume will be about average for the post war years, he said, since we have had nine years below and eight years above 42,000 since the end of World War II.

Continuous Coal Run Is Planned By Utility Firm

A unique plan for shipment of more than 1,500,000 tons of coal a year by an integral train shuttling continuously between the mine and a big power station, was announced today by J. Harris Ward, chairman and president of Commonwealth Edison Co.

The arrangement involves the utility, Peabody Coal Co. and the New York Central railroad. It is scheduled to go into effect March 1, 1964.

It provides for the operation by the New York Central of a special train of at least 100 cars between Peabody's Lynnville mine in Warwick county, Indiana, and Commonwealth's State Line generating station on Lake Michigan at Hammond.

The Lynnville mine, which is about 250 miles from Hammond, is currently a major source of fuel for the State Line station.

The integral train, carrying more than 10,000 tons of coal, will make a round trip every 48 hours, including leading at the mine and unloading at the power station, without any intermediate switching. It now takes several days for loaded cars to be delivered from the mine to the station.

A lower freight rate, reflecting the economies of integral train operation, will result in an estimated annual saving of more than $1,000,000 in the utility's fuel costs. The saving will be automatically passed on to customers of Commonwealth under the fuel adjustment clause which has applied to all of its rate schedules since 1954.

(This clause provides for an adjustment to reflect variations in cost of fuel for generating electricity. At present the adjustment results in an additional charge of 1/50th of a cent per kilowatt-hour.)

An unusual feature of the project is that the coal cars for the integral train will be owned and maintained by the Peabody Co. instead of the railroad. Peabody expects to invest between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 in specially built cars for the train and will construct facilities at the Lynnville mine for rapid loading.

In operation, the train arriving at the station will be run slowly, without uncoupling, over large receiving hoppers, emptying each car as it passes. Only four hours will be required to unload the complete train.

As part of the program, Commonwealth will build, at a cost of approximately $2,500,000, additional coal handling facilities at State Line, including hoppers and a belt conveyor system which will feed the coal to a storage pile serving the station.

Vegetable Growers Set Annual Meeting Jan. 15

Two meetings of interest for vegetable growers will be held next week. Leading off will be the annual meeting of the Illinois State Vegetable Growers' Association, at 10 a.m. Jan. 15, Hotel Louis Joliet, Joliet. The following day, Jan. 16, will feature the Annual Vegetable Growers' School at the Thornton Village hall, South Holland, starting at 9 a.m. The Vegetable Growers' school is sponsored cooperatively by the Agricultural Extension Service, University of Illinois; Cook County Farm Bureau; and the Cook County Truck Gardeners' and Farmers' Assn.

Each meeting will offer useful and practical information to local vegetable growers, according to William F. White-side, farm adviser.

The agenda for the ISVGA meeting on Tuesday, Jan. 15, will include discussion of the following: The Migratory Labor Housing Licensing Act; the Program of the Food and Drug Administration; The Economics of Vegetable Marketing; and Some Experiences with Organized Farm Labor.

School topics on Wednesday, Jan. 16, will include: Weed, Insect and Disease Control; Agriculture's Public Image; Pesticide Safety; Food Merchandising; and an Information Program for Consumers; Cost and Returns from Vegetable Production; New Vegetable Varieties; a panel of experts to answer questions. This program is free and open to the public. Vegetable growers are cordially invited to attend.

When an unknown man, walking on Rte. 7 in the early hours of New Year's Day, attempted to stop Theodore Czimer, Homer twp. assessor, "Ted" sped rapidly on, and very soon found himself colliding with the stranger's car, which had stalled on the highway. As a result both cars were quite badly damaged and Czimer sustained minor injuries. The accident occurred a quarter mile east of Cedar Rd., and the man with the stalled vehicle was trying to prevent it when he tried to halt the assessor.

Miss Rose Ponkauskas, who was a beautician in a townshop, has now located for work in her home on Cedar near 159th and may be called for appointments.

Christmas dinners not reported last week included a gathering in the William Daley home, the guests being Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daley, Mr. and Mrs. Merritt E. Cagwin and Connie, Mr. and Mrs. Don Cagwin and children, Mr. and Mrs. James Konick, and Misses Carol and Lois Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shepherd Sr. were dinner guests in the Alan Shepherd home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jerome Padock entertained a group of relatives which included the junior Willard Rowleys, Mr. and Mrs. George L. Milton, and Mrs. George Milton and son George of Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian Gorham of Dolton were guests in the Ralph Spiecker home on Cedar Rd.

Ross White of 151st St, who is quite ill, is now living in the Oak Bluff nursing home at Bruce and Route 4-A.

4-H leaders Mrs. George Brown and Mrs. Alvin Welter were among those who received special recognition at the recent Will County Honor Roll banquet held at the New Lenox Field House. They are co-leaders of the Country Charms Club, which has been led by Mrs. Galen Holloway of Lockport for some time. The president of this club is Janet Onderisin, vice president Lorette Lorenzen, secretary Paula McCann, and treasurer, Jill Wilson. They met Friday evening, Jan. 4 in the home of the vice president. Mrs. Holloway demonstrated the making of doll clothes. At Christmas time the group went caroling at the Salem Home for the Aged in Joliet.

Mrs. Alice Phillips and sons spent Christmas vacation with relatives in Colorado. Mrs. John Hollister and Mrs.

George Burcharm attended a board meeting of United Church Women in Lockport Wednesday. On Friday special music was furnished at the Silver Tea at Trinity Lutheran Church by Mrs. Hollister, Mrs. Stanley Cox and Mrs. John White.

Misses Linda Shepherd, and Susan Reed, assisted by Mrs. Robert Shepherd, furnished dainty refreshments at the King's Daughters' meeting at Homer Church Thursday. In recognition of Founders' Day, a talk relating to the founding of the Order and the early days of the local Circle was given by Mrs. L. E. Storm. The group voted to give a donation to the Hannah Harwood Club building fund and also to buy more of the stainless steel paring knives which have been popular sales items in the past.

On Sunday, Jan. 13, Rev. Cox will use for his sermon topic, "This is Our God." Sunday school, with classes for all ages, begins at 9:30 followed by morning worship at 10:45.

Mr. and Mrs. Edward Daley entertained at dinner on Sunday, Dec. 30, the following guests: Mr. and Mrs. William Daley, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Grubb, the Alan Shepherd family, Misses Carol and Lois Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Mitchell and Raymond Daley. Mr. and Mrs. Ray Carlson, with Lana and Jay, and Mrs. Ira Anderson were New Year's Day visitors in the Joe Vancil home in Downers Grove.

The diocese of Homer Church met Monday evening, Jan. 7, and will meet on the second Monday of each month this year. The trustees met Tuesday night of this week at Bob Burch's home. Choir rehearsal is Wednesday evening at 7:30 at the church, and Confirmation class is being held each Saturday morning at 10 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Williamson of Joliet are announcing the coming marriage of their daughter, Michele, to Robert H. Thompson, son of the Henry Thompsons of E. Seventh St., Homer twp. The ceremony is to take place at Lockport Methodist Church on Saturday evening, Jan. 12, at 7:30 o'clock with the Rev. Merle Hall officiating. Some invitations have been issued but relatives and friends are invited to attend the ceremony and reception which will follow in the church parlors.

Both young people are graduates of Lockport Twp. High

NI-Gas Plans Open House At Its Remodeled Store

The newly expanded and modernized downtown Joliet store of Northern Illinois Gas Company will have its official public open house next Tuesday, Jan. 15.

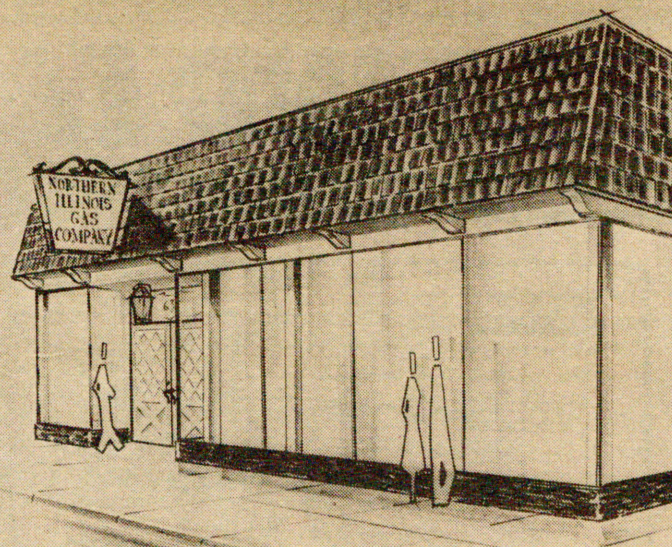

Barton Juell, Joliet district manager for NI-Gas, said the newly expanded store at 63 N. Chicago St. will host a special public welcome Tuesday. He invited area residents to come in and view the completely enlarged and redecorated display and customer service headquarters of the gas company.

Several special events have been planned for the day. While coffee and rolls, or soft drinks and popcorn will be served continuously, two complete cooking programs are planned for the new "Hall of Flame" public meeting room in the store. NI-Gas Home Service Adviser

Pat Ruden will present a thorough "Cooking with Gas" luncheon demonstration for interested visitors at 10 a.m. and 2:30 p.m., with menu offerings to be given away to members of the audience.

The "Hall of Flame" features the latest modern, built-in gas appliances on a raised stage, and has been designed for cooking schools and small meetings of about 30 persons. Juell stated that the "Hall of Flame" will be available during the year, if desired, to local civic organizations and groups for their meetings and activities.

Manufacturers' representatives will be on hand to answer questions or explain operation of the many modern gas appliances that are featured in the new building. Visitors may receive detailed literature on gas appliances, souvenir piggy-banks, salt and pepper shakers and gift comb sets for the family.

Paul Myers, NI-Gas division manager of sales, encourages all visitors to register at the door, for NI-Gas plans to give a modern gas range to a registered visitor. An additional prize will be given to the visitor who claims to own the oldest gas range still in everyday use. Four other registered visitors will receive modern, portable infra-red broilers for their home. Winners will be listed at the store on Friday, Jan. 18.

The bright and colorful new quarters feature many custom built display areas for all the various gas appliances. Area housewives will find several tastefully designed samples of early American and modern kitchen built-ins; while the man of the family can look at the inner workings of home heating units. Many of the kitchen displays and washing or drying units will be in actual working use that day, for comparative viewing by all visitors. Open house hours are from 8 a.m. thru 5 p.m.

Also planned for occupancy during 1963 are a new customer service center on East Avenue at 47th Street in LaGrange, and a new reporting center in Schaumburg Center, between Meacham and Plum Grove Roads on the south side of the Northwest Tollway. In addition, NI-Gas will move into a new reporting center in DeKalb next June, and complete construction of a Bloomington storeroom facility early next spring.

Northern Illinois Gas Company serves about 775,000 customers in 331 communities in 22 counties in northern Illinois outside Chicago.

Gas Bills Will Reflect Pipeline Rate Reduction

Gas bills for Northern Illinois Gas Company customers will reflect a pipeline rate reduction and a refund of approximately $4,120,000 from one of its suppliers, Natural Gas Pipeline Company of America, during the next 12 months.

According to H. E. Ford, vice president, this follows announcement made in October by NI-Gas and the present total reflects the additional period plus interest. It will apply to all NI-Gas customers.

Within the next month NI-Gas plans to begin passing this back to gas users in 332 Northern Illinois communities outside of Chicago in the form of credits on gas bills over a 12-month period. Residential customers using gas for space heating will save an average of nearly five dollars over the next 12 months.

Gas makes it easy to heat any extra room economically

Choose from these modern gas room-heaters for the fast, dependable heat you need in that extra room. All are handsome and compact... require no chimney... use no room oxygen (air is drawn in from outdoors into sealed combustion chamber). Ideal for attics, breezeways, closed-in porches, garages, bathrooms and sleeping rooms. All operate with typical gas economy.

1. Suburban Novent installs in window or wall. Completely automatic with built-in forced warm air circulation system.

2. Stewart-Warner Saf-Aire can be recessed in either masonry or frame walls. Operates as a self-contained unit; won't affect other heaters.

3. Peerless Uni-Matic can be used on any outside wall. Can be located beneath most windows to provide free arrangement of furniture.

4. Iron Fireman Chill-Chaser is a hot water room heater with compact built-in pump. Excellent for any hard-to-heat area—requires no vent.

5. Temco is ideal for heating large areas. Unit rests on floor and fastens to wall with two screws. Also may be used for summer ventilation.

6. Siegler (not illustrated)—is a compact, horizontal baseboard heater with a built-in look that blends well in any room or with any decorating style. Wall thermostat is self-energizing.

For the right gas room-heater for your needs, see your local heating contractor or stop at your Northern Illinois Gas Company store.

Grass And Legume Seeds Scarce, U. Of I. Warns

Most of the legume and grass seeds commonly used in Illinois will be in short supply for the 1963 planting season. Better shop early, University of Illinois agronomist W. O. Scott advises farmers who are planning spring plantings.

The 1962 alfalfa seed crop was estimated at 4 percent under the previous year's crop. This situation, augmented by a very low carryover, makes a total supply only a little greater than the amount used in the 1961-62 season. The seed supply of some varieties is very short. The '62 production of Buffalo, an excellent variety for central and southern Illinois, was practically all planted in the late summer and fall of 1962. So seed for this spring's planting will be almost nonexistent.

Fortunately, says Scott, there's a fair supply of Cody, a variety very similar to Buffalo, which performs equally well under Illinois conditions. Cody is a selection of Buffalo that is resistant to spotted alfalfa aphid. In University trials it has performed as well as Buffalo, so consider it an excellent replacement for Buffalo, Scott suggests.

Three Flemish-type alfalfas—DuPuits, Alfa and FD-100—are recommended in Illinois for short rotations only, since they are susceptible to bacterial wilt. These varieties recover rapidly after cutting and yield exceptionally well, Scott points out. Seed supplies of all three are somewhat limited. The wilt-resistant varieties -- Buffalo, Cody, Ranger and Vernal -- may be used in short as well as long rotations, Scott adds.

The '62 sweet clover seed crop was the smallest on record, he reports. Sweet clover seed, particularly the white blossom type, may be difficult to find.

Production of red clover was only a little lower in 1962 than in 1961, but the '61 crop was low compared with the average. So the total supply of red clover will be only a little larger than the expected use. Prices will be strong, Scott advises.

Both ladino and alsike clover seed supplies are probably adequate. However, Illinois farmers are using less of these clovers. Ladino makes excellent pasture for swine and may be used to good advantage for this purpose. But because it is drought susceptible, it should not replace all of the alfalfa in the pasture mixture, Scott suggests.

It's about the same story with seed supplies of the grasses. Crops of timothy and brome were lower in 1962 than in 1961. In addition, harvest-time weather conditions last year were such that some of the crop is low in quality.

Will County TB Seal Sale Is $8,482 Short Of Goal

Reports by the Will county TB seal sale campaign chairman, John H. French, of Joliet, reveal that returns to date are insufficient to carry on the program in Will county.

The amount needed to carry on the fight on TB in Will county, Mr. French said, is $40,000. Returns including Jan. 4 show $31,517 has been collected which is $8,482 short of the goal.

In the four days from Dec. 31 thru Jan. 4 (excluding New Year's day) a total of $1,421.41 was collected in the county. Of this $35.50 came from Frankfort township; $77.05 from New Lenox; $10 from Green Garden; $7 from Manhattan; Peotone township reported $8 and Homer $21.

New Lenox was third among the townships with its $77 contribution. Joliet was first with $809 and Lockport second with $165. Plainfield was fourth with $68.

There are quite a number of persons who received seals in the mail but have neglected or forgotten to send in a donation, it was pointed out by those in charge.

Man With A Gun Is Here Again--Income Tax Time

The 1963 federal income tax filing period has begun. Every citizen or resident of the United States -- whether an adult or minor -- who had $600 or more gross income in 1962 is required to file a return. For taxpayers 65 or over, no return is required unless gross income was at least $1,200. E. C. Coyle, Jr., Director of Internal Revenue Service for this district announced.

Collectors say returns should be filed as soon after Jan. 1 as possible, but no later than April 15, 1963. Taxpayers of the 26 counties of northern Illinois should file their returns with the District Director of Internal Revenue, 22 West Madison st., Chicago 2.

The Internal Revenue Service will offer assistance at the local offices, by telephone, and information programs thru newspapers, government publications, radio, and television.

Beginning January 28, 1963, the 20 local offices of the Chicago district will offer aid by the self-help group plan, which provides for assistance to taxpayers assembled in groups of 6 to 8, with an internal revenue agent instructor to guide them in the preparation of their returns. This service will be offered only on Mondays, it was stated.

In the area outside of Chicago, there are 16 branch offices where taxpayers may call for advice and information. People in this area may go to Joliet, 201 N. Ottawa St., SA3-9393; Harvey, 15325 S. Page Ave., 339-2441, or at 724 W. 64th st., HL3-6701.

Texas Eastern Pipeline Company Buys LP Gas Firm

Texas Eastern Transmission Corporation of Houston, one of the nation's largest pipeline companies, today took a new step into the field of energy supply with the purchase of the assets of the Pyrofax Gas Company, a division of Union Carbide Corporation, one of the world's leading chemical firms.

Texas Eastern's investment, including provisions for working capital, will amount to approximately $30 million.

The acquisition of Pyrofax puts Texas Eastern into the distribution phase of the LPG gas business for the first time. Announcement of the purchase was made jointly by Orville S. Carpenter, president of Texas Eastern, and Birny Mason, Jr., president of Union Carbide.

Pyrofax, to be operated as a wholly-owned subsidiary of Texas Eastern, is one of the oldest and largest retail propane companies in the United States. It annually markets more than 100 million gallons of propane to over 500,000 customers in 28 states, Eastern Canada and Bermuda. Distribution areas include the upper midwestern northeastern and southeastern portions of the United States.

Propane, one of the liquefied petroleum gases (LPGases), is used in the home for cooking, house heating, refrigeration, clothes drying and waste disposal. In agriculture, it is used for grain and tobacco drying and flame cultivation. In industry, propane is used for carburetion and many other purposes.

Pyrofax presently employs about 550 persons and is headquartered in New York City at 295 Madison Avenue. Walter Naumer, president of Pyrofax, and other officers and employees of the company will continue in present capacities with Texas Eastern's newest subsidiary, to be called Pyrofax Gas Corporation.

"The acquisition of the Pyrofax gas business," Mr. Carpenter said, "will be a significant step in our program of diversification, reducing our reliance upon the closely-regulated field of natural gas transmission."

Commenting further, Mr. Carpenter said that the purchase will fit well with Texas Eastern's concept of supplying energy in varied forms. The company already transports and sells natural gas and a full range of petroleum products. Plans to construct a coal pipeline also have been revealed.

ENGAGEMENT ANNOUNCED -- Mr. and Mrs. Herman Benck of Homer Township, Lockport, are announcing the engagement of their daughter, Ruth Ann, to William Boys, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roland Boys of Williamsburg, Ohio. Miss Benck, a graduate of LTHS and Joliet Junior College, is a senior at Concordia Teachers College in River Forest, Ill., preparing to be a parochial school teacher in the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. Boys is presently a vicar at St. Paul's Lutheran Church in Aurora. He will complete his studies next year at Concordia Theological Seminary in St. Louis, Mo., where he is preparing for the ministry in the Lutheran Church, Missouri Synod. He is a graduate of Concordia High School and Junior College in Milwaukee, Wis., and Concordia Senior College in Ft. Wayne, Ind.

The total supply of tall fescue is quite short, says Scott, since the '62 crop was 23 percent lower than the previous year's supply.

The one bright spot in the grass picture is orchardgrass. The '62 crop was larger than the '61 harvest. Orchardgrass is in relatively good supply. But demand has been picking up--in Illinois and elsewhere--in recent years, Scott reports.

As a general rule, supplies of legumes and grasses commonly used in Illinois will be relatively light and prices will be strong, says Scott. It may be necessary to substitute one alfalfa variety for another. In any case, shop for quality -- high germination and freedom from weed seeds -- in all crops, especially brome and timothy seed, Scott advises.

Forest Preserve Proceeds With Green Belt Plan

(CNS) The acquisition of over 4,500 acres by the forest preserve district for a countywide "green belt" will go ahead with some minor adjustments.

Monday, Charles Sauers, district superintendent, said county board president Seymour Simon asked that the program be reevaluated in the light of protests from the village of Oak Forest. The village protested the condemnation of land with in their corporate limits. The area was annexed by the village last summer while the district was formulating their plans to acquire the same property.

However, J. Sterling Mortimer, attorney for the district, said Monday his office will now go ahead with condemnation proceedings on land not already acquired by the district. At present the district has bought 950 acres.

The "green belt" area to be added to the district starts at 147th and Oak Park ave. and runs to 159th st. Then it goes east to Central ave. where it connects with existing district property. South of the Tinley Creek Woods, 167th and Central, the district planned on acquiring property south and east to Olympia Fields. Simon said Monday, tho, that this area will also be restudied since the property will be more expensive than originally planned.

The northern portion of the green belt additions in Palatine Township is a 1,700 tract running along Central, Roselle and Algonquin Rds.

Part of the financing for the project will come from federal urban renewal funds. According to Simon the district can hope to receive as much as 30 per cent of the purchase price.

The total estimated cost of the project is $6,416,000. The county now owns about 49,000 acres, and is limited by law to acquiring a total of 55,000 acres.

Sauers said it will be at least 10 days before he can make a report to the board president on the results of revamping the district's plans to meet the objections of Oak Forest.

Hunt To Run For Mayor: Petitions Now Available

DOLORES ANDERSON
HU 5-3651

At the New Lenox village board session last week there was a general open discussion on zoning problems, annexation, and the purchase of a new truck for the street department.

To date two petitions have been taken out for the coming village election to be held April 16. Eugene Hunt, now a trustee, is a candidate for mayor and Robert Bishop who will run for trustee. Petitions are available from Robert McCleary village clerk. They can be taken out at any time now, but cannot be filed before Jan. 21. The last day of filing is midnight Feb. 25, according to Mr. McCleary with whom the petitions will be filed.

Various organizations in town are sponsoring a new ice skating rink located on village property, near the village sewer treatment plant. The New Lenox fire department has been keeping the rink flooded for skating. Lights are being installed.

A large crowd of boys and girls as well as adults have been making use of the new rink every afternoon and evening.

The WSCS of the New Lenox Methodist church will meet Wednesday Jan. 16 at 1:30 p.m. for their 1st meeting of the new year. Members of Naomi Circle will be hostesses. Mrs. Edith Sayers will give the program on "Missions in the Modern World." All women of the church and their guests are invited to attend.

The January meeting of the New Lenox Home and Arts club will be held Wednesday afternoon Jan. 16 at the home of Mrs. William Zeigler, 833 So. Prairie road. Co-hostess for the afternoon will be Mrs. George Lyman. Project for the afternoon will be a demonstration on cracked marble jewelry with Hazel Rowsell doing the demonstrating.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Walsh have returned to their home at Saugatuck, Michigan after spending two weeks here with the Len Andersons and Earl Schroeders.

The Woman's Guild of Grace Episcopal church will meet in the home of Mrs. Fred W. Penn, Haven ave., Thursday night Jan. 10. Co-hostess for the evening will be Mrs. Edward Batson.

St. Jude's Parents club will sponsor a fish fry Friday night Jan. 11 with serving beginning at 5 o'clock in the school hall. Adult tickets will be $1.10 and children's, 70 cents. There will also be a bakery sale at the same time.

Everett Hauck, has returned to his Philadelphia navy base after spending the holidays here with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Sheldon Hauck. He expects to be released in February after completing two years of duty. Sheldon J. returned to his studies at Northwestern law School and Miss Barbara Hauck is now teaching at Lockport township high school.

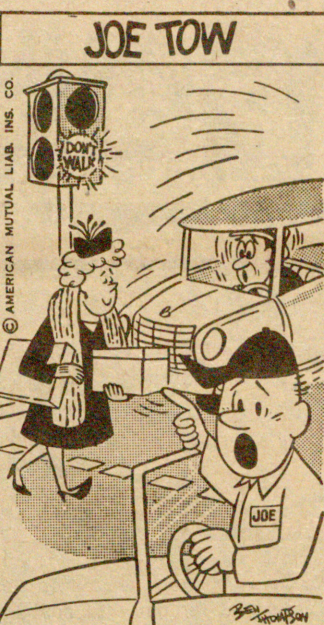

Mr. and Mrs. Edward A. Osamus and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Osamus and family attended a family gathering over the holidays at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Osamus and family in Plainfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Moss and family entertained at a family holiday gathering; Mr. and Mrs. William Schuldt of Mokena; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Fulton and children, Mrs. Edna Young, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Maue and Alfred Maue of Tinley Park; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Gougar and children and Mr. and Mrs. James Atchley of New Lenox.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pfeiffer entertained at a New Year's day dinner, for their children, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Pfeiffer and children, and Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Jensen and sons.

Mr. and Mrs. Harlow Jensen entertained at dinner over the holidays, Mr. and Mrs. William Fouser, and Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Pfeiffer.

Mr. and Mrs. Len Anderson and family entertained the Earl Schroeders and A. W. Walsh's at dinner on New Year's day.
